Sadness: Rosalind and Gareth Mason with a picture of their daughter Alice, who died after treatment for a brain tumour in February 2011

Family say toddler's death could have been prevented

Doctors could have saved a two-year-old girl if they had listened to her family's pleas for help sooner, her parents have claimed.

Rosalind and Gareth Mason have been searching for answers since their daughter Alice died in 2011, and they believe doctors missed nine opportunities to help her before she suffered irreversible brain damage.

Her parents said following chemotherapy at the Royal Marsden Hospital for a brain tumour in February 2011, the toddler took a turn for the worse, but doctors there, and at Kingston Hospital, told the family it was likely to be as a result of the chemotherapy and to wait for an MRI scan days later.

by JAMES PEPPER

Her family said by the time tests were finally carried out Alice had suffered irreversible brain damage caused by water on the brain, and surgery could not save her. The last time she was conscious the youngster was seen on her hospital bed writhing in pain holding her head.

They claimed a meeting by doctors to discuss their daughter's condition was cancelled. A letter to give to Kingston Hospital if her condition worsened asking for a CT scan was not acted upon, they claimed.

They also claimed staff at Kingston dismissed pleas for a scan until hours later. There were more delays until an operation was carried out at St George's, they said.

The Masons hope an inquest, on April 23, will help give them closure about what happened.

Mrs Mason, 46, said: "It has taken so long, and it has been really exhausting emotionally, but we have kept trying to push the hospitals to answer our questions, because we want to ensure this never happens to another child.

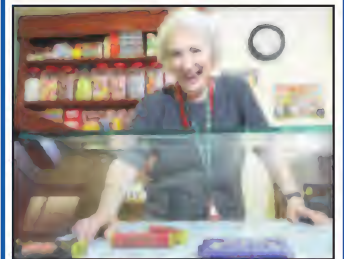

"It was bad enough that she had a brain tumour, that she had gone through surgery, and chemotherapy, but to be put through all that and then for something so basic to go untreated."

A joint statement from Kingston Hospital NHS Trust, Royal Marsden NHS Foundation Trust and St George's Healthcare NHS Trust said: "All three organisations offer their deepest sympathy to Mr and Mrs Mason over the death of their beloved daughter Alice.

"Unfortunately we cannot comment on the details of this case due to ongoing legal proceedings."

Thieves strike: Perry Hedges, inset, was part of a gang that targeted 42 Carphone Warehouse stores

A teenager from Kingston who was part of a gang of youths that "steamed" mobile phone shops stealing thousands of pounds worth of handsets and tablets has been sentenced to 26 months in a young offender institution.

Perry Hedges, 18, of Howard Road, was among a gang of eight, aged between 15 and 22, that stole £150,000 of stock and caused £55,000 of damage during their six-month spree between July and December last year.

The group, who all pleaded guilty to one count of conspiracy to commit burglary, targeted 42 Carphone Warehouse stores across London.

Southwark Crown Court heard the gang typically operated in a large group and would meet up and travel together to the shop they planned to steal from.

The gang would then race

by NAZIA DEWJI

around the shop, intimidating those who got in their way as they ripped stock complete with wires from displays.

Unsuspecting members of the public and shop staff were often caught up in the fracas, including mothers being forcibly separated from their children.

Detective Inspector Mark Loving, from the police's national mobile phone crime unit, said: "Due to the hard work and dedication of officers, eight males have been successfully convicted in relation to organised pan-London offending.

"This case should act as a warning to anyone involved in this type of activity that the Metropolitan Police will robustly and swiftly deal with those who use intimidation to fulfil their greed."

Emmanuel Kakala, 18, of Cargreen Road, South Norwood, was sentenced to 18 months imprisonment suspended for two years and 80 hours community service.

Samuel Warnes 20, of Egleston Road, Morden, was sentenced to 12 months imprisonment suspended for two years, and 12 months supervision.

Jahreau Shepherd, 22, of Orsett Street, Kennington, was sentenced to four years imprisonment. Ugo Wilson, 21, of Aviation Drive, Barnet, was handed a 27-month sentence.

Three teenagers from Wandsworth, Hillingdon and Lambeth, who cannot be named for legal reasons, were also convicted and given a total of 40 months detention and training.

'Serious failings' enabled dad to rape

A paedophile sentenced to 18 years in prison for raping his own children was allowed to continue because of mistakes by various public bodies, an independent case review has shown.

The man, in his 40s, was jailed for five counts of rape, three counts of wilfully ill-treating a young person and one count of actual bodily harm, following a trial at Kingston Crown Court last September.

The allegations, which date back to incidents between 1989 and 2008, were the subject of an independent serious case review into whether Kingston Council, Kingston Hospital, the Metropolitan Police and other public bodies failed to protect the victims.

Councillor Andrea Craig, opposition member for children's services, said: "I have now seen the report and it shows serious failings of Kingston Council, Kingston Hospital and the police with respect to how they handled the case individually and collectively including inadequate record-keeping and poor communication between agencies.

"They failed to address warnings. They failed to take action when they should have, repeatedly."

Member for children's services Councillor Patricia Bamford said: "All the recommendations from this serious case review were implemented when it was written some years ago. It has also had thorough scrutiny...and appropriate training was put in place."

A Kingston Council spokesman said: "This independent review contains no surprises for the council but provides all agencies in the borough with a very useful insight into a particular series of events.

"Such reviews give agencies the best opportunity to learn and continually improve the level of safeguarding they provide in the borough."

Teen wins for writing about rights

A Tolworth Girls School student has been listed in the top 10 of a human rights writing award competition for her account of a North Korean prison camp.

History-loving student Saphia Haffajee, 17, from Chessington, entered the Young Human Rights reporter of the year award and is now in the running to pick up the gong next month.

More than 2,000 young people entered the nationwide competition run by Amnesty International UK, the Guardian Teacher Network and the secondary school magazine SecEd.

Miss Haffajee said: "I was so happy when I heard. I was quite surprised because I read last year's winning one and it was really good.

"Once I found out I told all my friends and family. My mum was really excited."

The sixth former, who loves to read, said she was inspired by a book she read about North Korea some years before, which had made her very passionate about human rights and spreading the information.

Pete Henshaw, editor of SecEd, who has been involved in the judging process, said: "The piece is quite opinion-led, but this is well based on research and some chilling statistics are also woven in."

The winner will be announced at an awards ceremony at the Amnesty International UK's headquarters on April 30.

Man pulled out of river

A 21-year-old man was taken to hospital after he was pulled out of the Hogsmill river last week.

Kingston police and London Ambulance both attended the Sunray estate in Tolworth at about 1pm.

The area was cordoned off and police continued to search the river.

A Kingston police spokesman confirmed investigations are still ongoing and one man has been arrested and bailed.

Anyone with information should contact Kingston police on 020 8721 5842 or call Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Woman used millionaire's credit card

A woman has pleaded guilty to impersonating a millionaire oil executive found dead in New Malden.

Julie Witham, of Enfield, north London, pleaded guilty to conspiracy to defraud at the Old Bailey last week.

She admitted planning to hire a car using a credit card belonging to Carole Waugh, who was found dead in a lock up garage in Lime Court, New Malden, in August last year.

Witham, 47, will be sentenced on April 26.

Miss Waugh was last seen in April, having gone missing from her home in Marylebone, in central London. Her family reported her missing in May.

Her body was found on August 2, in a Volkswagen Golf parked in the garage.

A postmortem examination revealed she died four months previously from a single stab wound.

Rakesh Bhayani, 40, from Wembley, and Nicholas Kutner, 48, of no fixed abode, are charged with her murder, and have been remanded in custody.

Five others have been charged with conspiracy to defraud – Debbie Burke, 64, of Hainault, Essex; Elaine Perkins, 61, of Ilford; Susan O'Shea, 61, of Woodford Green; Derek Eastham, 55, from Pimlico, and Elie Khoury, 39, of Paddington.

Students climb on board time train

Kingston students travelled back to the 1950s with portrait cartoons celebrating the history of British railways.

Twenty-one year 11 students from Anstee Bridge showed off caricatures from another era at Kingston Market House – all painted by artist David Lewis.

The students used their sense of humour to capture the history of rail passengers throughout the ages.

They wrote poems that were put to music by Kingston musician Aaron Norton and then broadcast into the Market House.

Teaching assistant Jason Philips said: "It really does bring it home when you see the joy on their faces.

"They are learning, even though they might not know it."

The Anstee Bridge programme exists for year 11 students who, for one day a week, need an alternative to school, giving them confidence through unusual ways of learning and participating.

The exhibition at the Market House ran until Thursday, March 28.

Shutting up the shop

More than 34 years after Ashok and Hansa Davdra opened their shop, Kingston Newsagents, in London Road, it is set to close.

The couple celebrated their business's anniversary, but, just days later, they will close their shop for the final time.

Kingston Newsagents will have its shutters pulled down for good today, April 4, after Mr and Mrs Davdra decided to call it a day in the face of a gloomy economic climate and a rising number of nearby supermarkets offering deals it simply could not compete with.

The couple's daughter,

Sona Parmar, 35, said: "When they got the shop in 1979 I was only one-year-old and my sister wasn't even born."

"They have been running it together every day ever since, but about seven or eight weeks ago they decided they were definitely going to close."

"The shop was only just breaking even and it really isn't worth their time and effort anymore."

"When they first opened in the early 1980s the shop was absolutely buzzing."

"But we are in hard times. Everybody is looking for a deal and they just cannot compete with the supermarkets."

Mess: Paul Bedforth is frustrated by the bags of dog foul along the path

Deadlinepix KT75049

A disgruntled father has kick-started a campaign to get a bin reinstated on a footbridge cluttered with dog mess.

Kingston Council got rid of the two existing bins between Alric Avenue and Dukes Avenue in New Malden earlier this year, but this led to dog walkers flinging bags of dog foul at tree branches and railings along the pathway.

Paul Bedforth, 45, of Coombe Gardens in New Malden, frequently passes through the area and has become more and more frustrated with the mess.

The John Lewis employee

by NAZIA DEWJI

ndewji@london.newsquest.co.uk

said: "The spot is pretty awful. This is a path that is used by parents taking their children to school as well as commuters and dog walkers."

"I have never seen anything quite as horrific in the sense of dog mess."

"People have gone half the distance by picking the mess up, but then throwing the bag about is worse."

The father-of-one, who has a dog of his own, has created an online petition to get the bins back and has already succeeded at one end of the footbridge.

He has now also turned his attention to the same problem in Cambridge Avenue and Beverley Park with a new petition.

Mr Bedforth, who has a wire-haired dachshund called Max, said: "People who don't clear up after their dogs give the rest of us dog owners a bad name."

"I'm sure it's a minority, but that minority do spoil it for the majority. It is a big issue."

A council spokesman confirmed a litter bin had been ordered to replace the bin taken away.

He said: "The bins were taken away because of vandals and people emptying the contents on to the public footway, and people were leaving domestic refuse bags next to the bins, which were then split open by animals."

"The council will monitor and if there are repeat problems will remove them."

To sign the e-petition to reinstate dog bins in Cambridge Avenue and Beverley Park visit petition.kingston-public-tv.org/epetition-core/view/dogbins.

Collision

A Christmas day hit-and-run investigation has been completed, said a Kingston police spokesman.

Investment banker Natalie Wright, 36, of Tudor Drive in New Malden was knocked off her motor scooter along Kingston Road on December 25 last year.

Miss Wright suffered severe internal bruising and lacerations.

Police tracked down a person believed to have been involved in the incident, but no arrests had been made as this newspaper went to press.

A spokesman said: "The investigation into the collision is now complete."

Sweet way to step back in time

by NAZIA DEWJI

ndewji@london.newsquest.co.uk

Welcome to 1959 where Harold Macmillan is Prime Minister, rock'n'roll is on the wireless and baked beans on toast is your tea time treat.

Anyone hoping to pop into this Chessington care home shop may well feel like they have stepped back in time as the walls are covered with 1950s posters, sweets are crammed into see-through jars and weighing scales are on show – even the cold counter is laid out on a marble surface.

This old fashioned convenience shop inside Amy Woodgate Resource Centre in Nigel Fisher Way officially opened its doors to customers on Thursday last week.

The 1959 inspired shop in the care home for dementia sufferers has combs, hair nets, old school chocolate bars and all things reminiscent of yesteryear for sale.

Handyman Tony O'Gorman, who built the shop, said: "I am really pleased with it. There are a few bits I still need to sort out but it is pretty much finished. I might add a postbox outside the shop."

"The residents that have seen it are impressed. It is a bit embarrassing how lovely everyone is being."

Old sweetheart: Shopkeeper Lola Myers at the Amy Woodgate Resource Centre's new convenience shop

Claire Windsor, activities co-ordinator at the centre, said: "It is a shop but also a room to reminisce in. Residents can just go in to have a wander around – not even to buy anything."

"This is somewhere to get a chocolate bar or even some bubble bath. Residents can shop without going to the supermarket, which is big and busy. It is empowering for them to make their own decisions."

Many of the shop's products have been ordered from the internet or have been donated and have a likeness in appearance to the packaging from many of the residents' younger years.

Resident and dementia sufferer Lola Myers, who will be running the shop, said: "I am an old girl and have been around a long time."

"I am looking forward to running the shop and having a chat."

The grandmother-of-five who has been in the West End and owned her own beauty shop also said she would not get confused about the decades as the shop is much smaller than the grand ones from her day.

'No info stolen' in site hack

Police investigating the hacking of Tiffin School's website said they believed no personal information was compromised.

The grammar school's site was redirected to a number of web pages including Twitter pages and a porn video before it was shut down on Monday, March 18.

A Kingston police spokesman said: "Police maintain an open mind as to who may be responsible."

"So far there is no indication that any personal information was compromised."

Simon Toynne, assistant headteacher at Tiffin School, said: "The school has been working with the police as they try to identify the hacker. A temporary website is in operation until a new website is online."

No arrests had been made as we went to press.

Go ahead: How the new student buildings, centre of picture, will look

Plans to build 115 student rooms and teaching space at a former petrol station and garage in Penrhyn Road were approved on Tuesday last week.

The proposals, from real estate company Amro, went through Kingston Council's development control committee on chairwoman Councillor Vicki Harris' deciding vote.

A plan for 116 rooms with shops below had been rejected by councillors last year, but revised designs including a smaller building and multi-coloured bricks persuaded the committee to pass it.

Surbiton Councillor Malcolm Self said it was an improvement, but he said late Councillor Frances Moseley would not have approved.

He said: "I am absolutely certain if she was here she would say this has not got the wow factor."

Coun Chrissie Hitchcock did not

by JON SHARMAN

vote, but cast doubt on security at the flats.

She said, referring to Amro's two-strike policy for students: "I can assure people that at three o'clock in the morning someone coming home screaming and shouting, there is not a lot they can do with their red and yellow cards."

Raj Kotecha, Amro managing director, told the meeting the company had worked "very hard" to revise its initial design.

He said: "As the long-term owner of this property I think I am able to speak with a degree of commitment. I am pleased to say that having done this we have got some very strong support from your officers."

Later he added: "We place great importance on the quality of our properties and the way that the halls are managed.

"We look forward to developing an outstanding building in this gateway location to Kingston."

There were 64 objections and 20 letters of support as part of a consultation.

Maria Wise, a resident of Edinburgh Court near the site, said she was "bitterly disappointed" the plans were voted through.

She said: "Despite efforts to improve the proposal this application has major flaws. We will see how it goes."

Coun Harris said: "I think it is quite clear this applicant has done an awful lot of work to address the concerns that we raised last time."

"It is a completely different-looking building to the one we saw before."

Amro hopes to have the building ready next September.

Councillor must step down over child services failures

Another week and more failures are revealed at the heart of Kingston Council.

A serious case review was held into allegations that a father was able to sexually abuse his children despite numerous contacts with social services.

In a shocking disregard for transparency, the review was removed from the council's website after only five days.

This is against good practice and comes after the failings of Kingston's children's safeguarding came to light.

Kingston Council claims this was in line with guidelines, but these are guidelines of their own making.

Kingston appears to be alone among London councils in refusing to allow its electorate to see reports and investigations into what is really happening. One has to ask what else they are trying to hide.

At what point will Councillor Patricia Bamford, lead member for children's services, take responsibility for the failings in her department?

Are we really to have confidence that someone who has overseen such gross incompetence and negligence has the ability, understanding and drive to ensure that the urgently needed improvements will actually take place?

Coun Bamford is constantly being caught on the back foot, claiming ignorance and deflecting blame elsewhere.

How long can this parody of the democratic process be allowed to continue?

Kingston Labour Party again calls for Coun Bamford to resign her position and allow someone new to take over responsibility for the task of making the important changes needed to prevent cases like this from happening in the future, and ensure proper protection for all Kingston's children.

Kingston residents deserve better.

They deserve a council that takes responsibility for its failings, not one whose political leadership attempts to cover up its failings and then shifts the blame when the truth, despite its attempts at a furtive secrecy, starts to emerge.

Chance to suggest names is most welcome

Well done Wahid Samady. In the Kingston Guardian and Surrey Comet, Mr Samady, chairman of CNM Estates, wrote "I hope you will all now help with suggestions for the permanent name of what I hope you will agree will be a long awaited and welcome feature on the corner of Ewell and Red Lion Roads" (Please suggest names, March 21).

On behalf of the "200 little voices" of the Friends of Kingston Museum and Heritage Services, thank you for this invitation to all who have an interest in our heritage to take part in this consultation.

What with this and your recent consultative meeting about the future of the old Regal Cinema/Gala Bingo Hall, such an initiative is most welcome.

So email namesforredlion@cnmestates.com or write to CNM Estates, Kingstons House, 15 Coombe Road, Kingston KT2 7AB with your suggestions.

As someone who lived in Tolworth for 45 years I will throw my personal hat in to the ring with "Red Lion Court".

Finally, a thank you to the # Police front counter set to close

Politicians have criticised plans to close Surbiton police's front counter at Millbank House.

As part of London Mayor Boris Johnson's police and crime plan it will be replaced by a contact point, for "non-urgent face-to-face contact".

It will be open from 7pm to 8pm on Wednesdays and Thursdays, and on Saturdays from 2pm to 3pm.

by JON SHARMAN

jon.sharman@london.newsquest.co.uk

Kingston Council leader Councillor Derek Osbourne said: "Bobbies and buildings has been an old mantra and has led to police stations closing in the past, to the point where we have got neither.

"Also you do not see the police presence that people have valued so much over the past 10 years."

Laurie South, chairman of Kingston Labour, said: "I think it is just very disappointing.

"I can predict it will be closed by the end of the year because nobody will remember what three hours they were open, and so will never bother to go."

Opposition leader Councillor Howard Jones said: "As an ex-officer responsible for policing Kingston in the past it makes operational and financial sense. It's a question of managing a diminishing resource in terms of finance."

The Mayor said: "Londoners have repeatedly told us that putting more officers on the streets is their top priority, not keeping them hidden behind desks. By getting police out on the streets and into the heart of communities we will drive down crime and build a police service which is leaner, more efficient and more effective."

Other contact points will be in Hook Parade and Cowleaze Road.

Kingston police station will retain its 24-hour front counter, and the standard daytime counter at the CI Tower in New Malden will stay open.

Try an authentic taste of India

One of the longest established Indian restaurants in Worcester Park is Rupali which has been run by the Hakim family since 1986, writes Tamasin Coates.

The restaurant has a modern, stylish décor with crisp white table linen. It offers a wide choice of Indian favourites such as jalfrezi, dhansak, balti, and biryani.

It also offers a good choice of fish specialities such as Tamarind fish curry (£9.95) – diced salmon fillet cooked in a tangy sauce with tamarind, coconut milk, cumin, red chilli and garlic.

Another is talapia jaal massala (£12.95) fish off the bone and served in a sauce of tandoori spices and green chillies.

Owner Raihan Hakim explained that Rupali has a loyal following among the local community who love the authentic dishes on the menu.

I tried one of the chef's recommendations – peppery chicken chettinad (£7.75) a south Indian dish featuring chicken with curry leaves, cumin, black peppercorns, delicate spices and finished with coconut milk. Delicious!

My friend ordered the peshwari chicken (£6.45) – pieces of Tandoori grilled chicken cooked in a thick sauce with spices, onions, capsicum and tomatoes.

We had pilau rice, peshwari bread and saag bhajee (spinach with onions and garlic) to accompany it.

Hidden hero: Simon Jakeman the eco-firefighter

Greenest firefighter

Surbiton's most environmentally friendly fireman has been uncovered in a nationwide search for Hidden Heroes.

Simon Jakeman, the man behind London's greenest fire station in 2010, was commended in the category of workplace by the World Wildlife Fund.

He said: "I am really humbled and honoured to have been nominated and to win. It is brilliant."

Alongside the title he won £500, to spend on continuing his efforts at the fire station.

He said: "Hopefully I am going to use all that for the roof garden, getting more bird boxes and that kind of thing."

"We are growing more food and the trees I have planted already, pear trees and peach trees. Once the weather gets better we are growing everything again."

He has spoken to other fire crews, hoping to inspire them to grow their own fresh food.

Spot shown in iconic image could be made a landmark

by HANA HAUSMEISTER

hana.hausmeister@london.newsquest.co.uk

The spot on the Hogsmill River depicted by Sir John Millais in his iconic painting Ophelia could soon become a landmark.

An anonymous donor has stepped forward to fund the project, which may see a bench and plaque built on the riverbank in Surbiton.

Barbara Webb, art-enthusiast and Old Malden resident, claimed to have pinpointed the location in Berrylands years ago. It was the subject of her booklet Millais and the Hogsmill River.

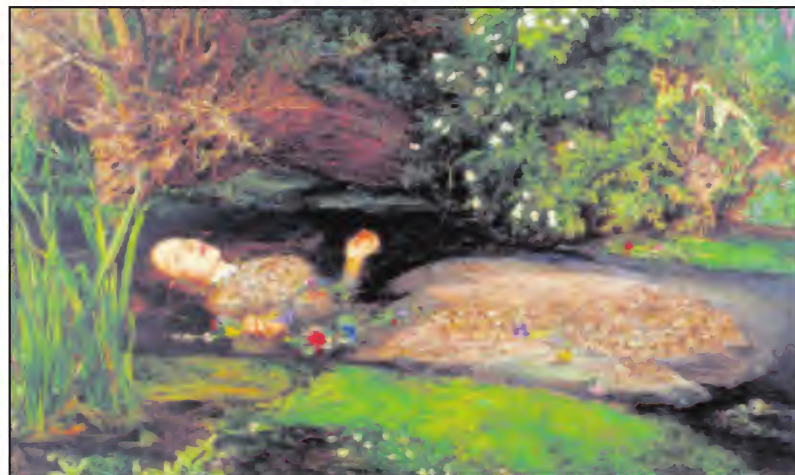

She said: "You can see on the banking on the river where people have walked. I thought for a long time that it would be nice if there was a bench of some sort. We have to wait and see."

Councillor John Burgess said the council will soon arrange a site visit.

He said: "It is possible that we would be able to get funding from the council."

"Someone else has also come forward who is an art lover and holds Barbara in high esteem."

Ophelia was voted the UK's

Classic: Sir John Millais's image was voted the UK's favourite Pre-Raphaelite painting favourite Pre-Raphaelite painting in a competition run by the Pre-Raphaelite Society last year.

The backdrop was based on the Hogsmill River, but the model, 19-year-old Elizabeth Siddal, was painted in a bathtub in Millais' studio.

Patricia O'Connor, chairwoman of the pre-Raphaelite Society, said: "I am extremely fascinated the area is so interested and keen enough to consider this plaque."

But Miss Webb is not convinced the council will go ahead with the plans.

She said: "It is not just like putting a bench in your garden. It has got to have proper foundations and things. It isn't the world's easiest site to put a bench on."

Coun Burgess said: "I think it is a brilliant idea. Kingston obviously has quite a rich history, as with the coronation stone. I can definitely see the cultural advantage to it."

ON THE STREETS: Esquire writer and Man Booker Prize judge Anthony Quinn, pictured, visits Surbiton library this month.

Author of war novels Half the Human Race and The Rescue Man, Quinn will visit the library as part of City Read London to discuss his latest novel, The Streets.

Alison Townsend, from Kingston libraries, says: "It is always nice when you are able to get an author come along and it is great for the public to be able to talk to somebody, especially if they have read his book. They can talk about what started them reading. It is not often you get the chance to interrogate someone who you have read."

The Streets is set in Victorian-era London and ties in with the theme of this year's City Read book, Sebastian Faulks' A Week in December.

STARRING ON THE STAGE

A mash-up of your favourite West-End hits and movie songs will keep audiences glued to their seats when Salute to Stage and Screen comes to Kingston, writes Nazia Dewji.

More than 30 performers will put on an electric show boasting dance, comedy and drama, featuring songs from musicals and movies including Les Misérables, West Side

Story, Beauty and the Beast, Miss Saigon, Chicago and Oliver.

Performed by members of the Mayhem Musical Theatre

Company, the show aims to bring a smile to audiences' faces.

Chairman of the theatre company and musical director Jon Wade says: "There truly is something for everyone in this show. It is like a tribute to music that is from the stage and movies so it is like a compilation show."

"There's no story involved, it is just singing, dancing, acting and comedy — like a variety show. It is a very fast-paced show — it goes from something emotional to something more humorous very fast. It takes people on a journey."

"With such an incredibly talented cast and a superbly entertaining programme, the show will certainly bring a smile to every member of the audience."

"We try to get a good mix of things in there — stuff people already know and even things we can introduce people to that might not be mainstream."

He says the company was inspired by popular culture and particularly took interest in the public's reception of the hit West-

End production Les Misérables that was turned into a film when adding songs and skits to the line-up.

Wade says: "We keep going back to Kingston College because we love the venue and the people are so supportive, so it has become like a regular base for our shows."

A FINE FARCE

From the group which brought Calendar Girls to the stage earlier this year comes a comic musical based on Victoria Wood's classic soap opera parody Acorn Antiques.

Kingston Vale Operatic and Dramatic Society (KVODS) brings the show, with script and songs written by Wood, to Kingston Grammar School.

Director Jeff Raggett says: "The most dangerous thing we have had in rehearsals is falling about laughing reading the script. Every time you do it you're reading more into it."

"The great thing about it is Victoria Wood's writing is so clever."

"You have to go wrong at the right time. You have to work at doing those things and then there is a lot of slapstick stuff."

Sign up to Architect in the House 2013 now

Make the most of your living space

TV architect George Clarke is offering homeowners the chance to improve their property by signing up to Architect in the House 2013.

The scheme, launching this month, matches homeowners with local RIBA architects, while raising money for housing charity Shelter.

Whether it's creating an open-plan living space or designing an extension, Architect in the House helps homeowners to develop their ideas with an RIBA-chartered architect while raising money for Shelter's work with families who are in housing need.

Run by Shelter and the Royal Institute of British Architects, Architect in the House provides free, one-hour design consultations with RIBA chartered architects for a suggested donation to Shelter of £45. Homeowners across Sutton can register until August 21 at www.architectinthehouse.org.uk.

George Clarke, architect and Shelter ambassador, said: "With the current state of the housing market, we're staying in our homes for longer, but life doesn't stand still and simple changes to your home can make a big difference. Whatever the project, big or small, architects offer invaluable advice. Architect in the House can really help people unlock the potential in their current homes and create more space, from a simple internal change to developing an attic space or designing an extension.

"Signing up to Architect in the House is simple to do and is a great way to make the most of a local architect's expert advice, while raising money for Shelter at the same time. As a Shelter ambassador, I've seen first-hand how the money raised by this scheme helps people in desperate housing need."

Now in its 17th year, Architect in the House has raised over £1.7million for Shelter to help homeless and badly housed families. Homeowners will be matched with architects from within a few weeks of signing up. Consultations can take place any time until the end of November.

TV architect George Clarke

Survey shows we all love the green, green, grass of home

According to the survey carried out by Homebase, the average garden has had £1,790 worth of investment – that's £80billion worth of petunias, ponds and parasols sitting on porches up and down the country.

The need for investment is clear with two fifths of Britons refusing to choose or consider a home unless it has a sufficient garden. In fact, one in seven homeowners claim their garden has added more value to their home than they had ever invested.

With so much value outdoors, it's no wonder that Britons are concerned about the value of the garden's contents. Loss of a lawnmower is the nation's biggest garden concern (30 per cent).

For homeowners using flower power to sell their house, one kind really rose to the occasion: the rose bush was regarded the most attractive.

However, it was humble grass that provided the biggest draw for UK house-hunters, outstripping all other plants, trees and flowers as the item that people look for in gardens.

Million motorists delay repairs

More than a million cash-strapped motorists are driving on Britain's roads with accident-damaged vehicles, new research suggests.

Tens of thousands could be unaware that the safety of their vehicles has been compromised by minor prangs, according to Accident Exchange, which calculated the estimate.

As petrol prices soared, annual car travel fell by over nine billion miles according to Department for Transport figures – or 2.9 per cent – between 2006 and 2012.

While the number of accidents remained largely static, the percentage reported to the authorities fell by 2.2 per cent and the number of recorded repairs fell even more significantly –

Drivers opt to pocket payouts rather than to fix damage

a massive 21 per cent says Trend Tracker, specialists in automotive market research.

That leaves an estimated 1,092,000 drivers who opted not to have their vehicles repaired following an accident in the last 12 months alone.

Analysts at Accident Exchange, which supplies courtesy vehicles for crash victims, says that a combination of crippling insurance costs and squeezed household incomes have underpinned the potentially worrying trend.

With motorists maximising excesses in an effort to reduce insurance premiums, the financial impact on already stretched household incomes has seen a rise in 'delayed repairs'.

Accident Exchange CEO, Steve Evans, said: "The double whammy impact of losing their No Claims

Discounts and paying increased excesses on insurance claims has seen the number of private settlements between fault and non-fault drivers rise.

"The innocent party is then choosing to pocket the money rather than seeking to repair what they see merely as cosmetic damage."

For a driver with a £500 excess, cosmetic damage caused by a car parking bump or lower-speed accident is often cheaper to settle privately rather than claim through their insurance policy.

Some insurers are offering excesses as high as £750, which can dramatically reduce monthly premiums, but one in three motorists admits that they could not afford to pay the excess they agreed to on their policy.

The risk is that damage done by minor prangs is more than cosmetic and that the structural integrity of the vehicle may be compromised, despite not being visible.

Components at the front of the car such as the 'crash box', radiator or airbag sensors, if damaged or moved even at low speeds, could compromise the effectiveness of the car's safety features in the event of another accident.

At speeds of under 10mph, this safety feature will minimise repair costs but any weakening of the crash box could hinder its ability to dampen the effect of future collisions, decelerate the vehicle and protect those in the car from serious injury.

Conditions of acceptance of advertisements

General

1. The following conditions apply to the placing of an order for insertion of advertisements in Newsquest Media Group ("Newsquest") printed or electronic publications. Each order will form a separate agreement and English law will apply. Any change to these conditions must be agreed by us in writing (which means by exchange of letter, fax or email). An "advertiser" means any person or organisation placing an advertisement on their own account or on behalf of another.

Contents

2. The advertiser confirms that the advertisement complies with all applicable legislation, regulations and codes of practice, including the codes supervised by the Advertising Standards Authority. We may reject or require changes to any advertisement so as to comply with legal or moral obligations placed on us or the advertiser; to avoid infringing the rights of a third party or any relevant code of practice; or to meet our published production and quality specifications.

3. The advertiser further confirms that:

- i) the publication of the advertisement will not breach any contract, infringe the copyright, trademark or other right of any third party and is not libelous of any person;
- ii) all licences and consents from third parties necessary for the publication of the advertisement have been obtained and paid for, including consent from living persons identified in copy or pictures (photographic or otherwise);
- iii) in respect of an investment advertisement, the contents have been approved by, or the advertiser is, and authorised person within the meaning of the Financial Services Act 1986 as amended or the advertisement is otherwise permitted under that Act.

Payment

4. All advertisements must be paid for in full at the time of booking unless credit has been agreed. The price shall be the amount fixed by our published rate card on the date of acceptance of the order plus VAT where applicable. For non-credit advertisers, we will cancel publication of an advertisement that has not been paid for on time. For credit advertisers, we will cancel publication of any future advertisements if payment is not made in accordance with our payment terms. For credit advertisers, interest will be charged on late payments at the rate of 3% above the Bank of England's base lending rate from the date payment is due together with the administration costs of collecting an overdue debt.

5. By placing an order with us, an advertising agency confirms that it contracts as principal with full authority from its client in all matters connected with the order and is responsible for all payments due. We will only accept advertisements from advertising agencies if they are recognised by us.

6. We will try to give notice of increases, but we reserve the right to change our advertising rates at any time. This will not affect contracts, including any fixed term agreement for a series of advertisements.

Box numbers

7. We will use reasonable efforts to forward replies to box numbers within a reasonable time, but we are not responsible for any failure or delay caused by circumstances beyond our reasonable control, or for any losses relating to an advertiser's business or any loss that is not reasonably foreseeable by both parties.

Cancellation

8. We will notify the advertiser of the latest time that orders can be cancelled (the "booking" deadline) and the latest time that advertising copy can be received by us ("the copy deadline"). An advertiser may cancel up until copy deadline and we will make reasonable efforts to re-sell the space, but the advertiser will be liable for the full price if the space is not sold and we will reclaim any unearned volume-based discount. Private advertisers booking by telephone or online may cancel in accordance with relevant law, but no refund shall be available after the copy deadline unless cancellation is due to our negligence. If the copy is not received by the copy deadline, we will not be liable if the advertisement does not appear, but the advertiser will remain liable to make full payment for the price of the advertisement.

9. We will try to satisfy an advertiser's request regarding the positioning of an advertisement, but no guarantee of position can be given unless agreed by us and paid for at the rate then current.

Errors

10. We are not liable for any error, misprint or non-appearance of an advertisement unless caused by our negligence, in which case the advertiser will be entitled to a re-insertion or proportionate refund. The advertiser is solely responsible for checking the advertisement on each insertion and ordering correction where necessary. Except where we have been negligent, we shall not be liable for an error or misprint that, in our reasonable opinion, does not materially detract from the advertisement. We shall not be liable in any case for losses relating to any business or public fund-raising for the advertiser, such as lost customers, revenue or profit.

Copyright

11. Advertisements are accepted on condition that we have the right to publish them online as well as in any booked titles. The copyright in work or material we contribute to or re-work for an advertisement belongs to us. We will dispose of advertiser's copy, artwork, photographs or other materials after six months unless collected.

General

12. We shall not be liable if our publishing activities are restricted or prevented by any law, act or event beyond our reasonable control (including, for example, industrial dispute). In such case, the advertiser shall accept publication when available or otherwise may cancel the order by written notice and pay only for work done and materials used.

13. We will use the advertiser's details for internal administration. Unless the advertiser tells us not to in writing at any time, we may also share details with other Newsquest companies or with carefully selected third parties, who may send information about goods and services.

14. The advertiser will be liable to pay us for all costs, losses, expenses and damages of any kind suffered or incurred by us as a result of legal claims or actions, actual or threatened, arising from the advertiser's breach of these conditions or the publications of the advertisement, unless caused by our own negligent act or failure.

15. We may cancel the order at any time if the advertiser breaches these conditions and the breach is not capable of remedy or it continues for seven days after we have given written notice of it, or if we reasonably believe the advertiser is unable to pay debts or the advertiser goes or threatens to go out of business.

Method of payment

We will be pleased to accept your payment by any of the following methods:

- CHEQUE - Made payable to NEWSQUEST (LONDON) LTD.
- BACS - Electronic Bank Transfer • CASH - Paid to one of our Branch Offices.

Runners turn out for breakfast

More than 3,000 runners descended on Kingston for the annual Breakfast Run over eight and 16 miles.

The long-distance race was won by John Franklin, pictured, of Met Police AA in one hour, 27 minutes, 31 seconds. The fastest woman over the same distance was Zoe Pike, of Hercules Wimbledon AC, in 1.49:09.

Herne Hill Harriers' Mohammed Ismail took the top prize over 8.2 miles in 46:10, with Felicity Cole, of One Triathlon, winning for the women in 53:18.

Tom's BTCC testing time

New Malden motorhead Tom Onslow-Cole only managed to get behind the wheel of his new NGTC Volkswagen Passat CC 24 hours before the first race of the BTCC season.

The 25-year-old arrived at Brands Hatch on Saturday morning, in time for practice and qualifying for Sunday's races, just as the Team Hard engineers were putting the final touches to the new-build car.

It meant the weekend's racing became a public testing event for Onslow-Cole and the team. Even so, he raced to a 14th and 16th-place finish, sandwiching an unclassified finish in race two.

He said: "It was a tough weekend. It is difficult to test the car in public, and there are some niggles to sort out. We're not running at full power yet but there is potential there, and it is clear we have a good car."

The BTCC moves on to Donington Park on April 21, with Jason Plato making the early running.

Ks call for passion in the red and white shirt

by TIM ASHTON

tim.ashton@london.newsquest.co.uk

Kingstonian assistant manager Mark Hams says the team is ready to fight for a play-off spot rather than go meekly into the summer.

Ks are 11 points off fifth place with nine games remaining, and manager Alan Dowson has already turned his attention to preparing for next year's Ryman Premier League campaign.

His team were due to host Met Police on Tuesday night, but Saturday's 1-0 win over Hampton & Richmond, who have since parted company with manager Mark Harper, and two new signings has galvanised Ks' season finale.

Dowson has brought in versatile midfielder Reece Hall from Tooting & Mitcham, while Polish right-back Szymon Sidorowicz has joined on a recommendation from AFC Wimbledon.

Hams acknowledged that the play-offs are a distant hope, but he and Dowson want to finish the season with a team that wants to play.

"It was nice to get a result at Hampton. It was one of those where we looked like we wanted it more than the opposition, which has not been the case for some time," he said.

"That's what we want to see

Raw emotion: Lewis Taylor celebrates his hat-trick in February's 9-3 win over Cray Wanderers. It is this passion that Hams wants until the end of the season between now and the end of the season.

"We want players who want to pull on the red and white of Kingstonian and fight to the end. If we fail to reach the play-offs, then it won't be for the lack of trying."

Going out the Kingsmeadow door are Dean Lodge, to Dulwich Hamlet, and Nathan Koranteng, to St Neots Town.

Hams said: "I wish them the best, I am sure wherever they go they will be successful."

On the new arrivals, Hams said: "I know Reece from when the Ks academy played the Tooting academy. He's a versatile player who can drop back and defend, but who we're encouraging to get forward as well."

"Szymon is a full back who likes to get forward. He was on the scouting books at AFC Wimbledon, and they've convinced us he's good enough to be a League player."

"So if he is good enough to be a League player, he should do well at our level."

Ks host Whitehawk this weekend, followed by the visit of Hastings United on Monday.

SPORTSbrief

HOCKEY: Surbiton's young stars of the future pulled on the England shirt at the Four Nations Invitational Tournament over the Easter weekend. Oreoluwa Ogunlana took his place in goal for the U16s, but could not prevent them losing to Germany, Spain and Netherlands to finish fourth. James Gall, Peter Phillips and Jonny Ruiz played for the U18s, but only a draw with Spain, saw them finish last.

JUDO: Kingston's judo star of the future David Wilson won gold in the heavy-weight division at a British Judo tournament at Brunel University last week. Teams from Kingston College, West Thames College, Brunel University and Middlesex University competed for top honours, with 18-year-old Wilson bringing home the prize.

FOOTBALL: Corinthian Casuals took a step towards Ryman Division One South survival with a 0-0 draw against Walton Casuals on Saturday, and a 1-0 win at Leatherhead on Monday. They are now four points above the drop-zone, with a game in hand.

ATHLETICS: Stragglers AC's Anthony Jackson triumphed at the London Easter 10k in Hyde Park on Monday, clocking 32 minutes, 58 seconds to win by more than a minute from his nearest rival.
